Step Taken In Cast Of Any Major Emergency That Menaces Country

WASHINGTON, April 5—The war department today broadcast a nationwide appeal of ex-service men to join a reserve corps of "American minute men" to be instantly ready for action in case of war.

The army's dramatic appeal was carried over the nation and by radio and through the medium of the press. Seventy-five thousand able-bodied former soldiers were asked to give their services to the country again should war come.

The call to colors was addressed to ex-enlisted men under 36 years of age, whether married or single.

The war department said that this corps of 75,000 men of the enlisted reserve would be used as a part of the "initial protective force" in event of any national emergency.

The other parts of the initial protective force, which the nation would throw into the field immediately in case of war, consists of the regular army of 165,000 men, the national guard of 200,000 men and the reserve officers corps of 110,000.

EDWARD J. KELLY

Republicans Declare That Strength Means End Of New Deal Power

CHICAGO, April 5—Conflicting claims were made today by leaders of both major parties as to the national significance of the Chicago election yesterday, in which Mayor Edward J. Kelly, backed by one of the country's strongest city Democratic machines, won reelection over his Republican opponent, Dwight H. Green.

Republicans claimed Green's showing, the strongest of any Republican in Chicago in ten years, assured a sweep of Illinois by the G. O. P. in 1940 and "doomed the New Deal nationally."

Democrats, however, asserted the election proved nothing of interest outside Chicago and had no national significance.

Record Vote Polled

The vote for mayor, which gave each candidate a total greater than any member of his party ever had received before for the office, and set a record for votes cast in a Chicago election, was: Kelly: 820,517.
Green: 637,107.

Mayor Kelly's election came as no surprise, but most observers were amazed at the Republican strength shown. To the impartial observer, there appeared some

NEW YORK, April 5—No longer the jaunty, self-assured Tammany leader of former years, James J. Hines secluded himself with his family today, at liberty under $35,000 bail after spending 13 days in a dimly lit cell in Tombs prison.

London Hears That Armed Forces Patrol Border Of Yugoslavia

LONDON, April 5—As the British government scanned reports of increased Italian activity in Albania and the Adriatic area, the foreign office today disclaimed official knowledge of rumors of increased participation by Italy and Germany in the affairs of Nationalist Spain.

Officials asserted that the foreign office had no information about reports that the British and French ambassadors had protested to Burgos the reported landing of 4,000 new Italian troops on Spanish soil.

They were also unaware, they said, of a report from Germany that General Francisco Franco had promised that Spain's Atlantic ports would be available to the Italian navy in the event of war.

It was learned that Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano has informed the British ambassador in Rome, Lord Perth, that should the international situation "deteriorate" during the next few days, Italy will send troops to Albania to insure the safety and security of that nation.

WOMEN INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. Emily Smith, Wellston, Has Concussion, Long Cut On Scalp

Two women were injured Tuesday afternoon in an auto accident on Route 56 about nine miles east of Circleville. Cars they were driving collided on a curve.

Mrs. Emily Louise Smith, 61, 415 W. Second street, Wellston, is in Berger hospital suffering from a concussion, long laceration in the top of her scalp, three fractured ribs, possible internal injuries and multiple concussions and abrasions. Mrs. Harold Harmon, 26, of Adelphi, was bruised. Mrs. Harmon was treated by Dr. E. S. Shane and Mrs. Smith by Dr. E. L. Montgomery. Mrs. Harmon was not ordered to the hospital.

The sheriff's department said the women were brought to Circleville for treatment by John D. Hummel, E. Mound street, a passerby.

Mrs. Harmon was driving west on the highway and Mrs. Smith was going east.

KILLER OF RICH MARION FARMER, WIFE MUST DIE

COLUMBUS, April 5—The state supreme court today denied the appeal of Harvey L. Roush, convicted Marion county murderer, and set his execution date for April 30 of Homer T. Myers, wealthy Marion county cattleman. Mrs. Myers was murdered at the same time but Roush was tried only for Myers death.

The crime, one of the most shocking in central Ohio in years, occurred late on the night of April 30, 1938, and was discovered by passersby who noticed the Myers farmhouse was aflame.

The charred bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Myers were found in the blazing structure and it was determined that they had been shot to death.

Roush, a tenant of the Myers farm, was arrested the next day and soon after, charged with the murder of the husband. In a confession introduced at his trial, Roush said he was insane at the time of the crime and was incensed at Myers because of the latter's asserted attentions to Mrs. Roush.

The prosecution claimed, however, that Roush was heavily in debt to Myers and shot the cattleman when the latter refused to surrender a note. Mrs. Myers, the prosecutor charged, was shot when she rushed to her husband's aid.

Maid Who Hears Fuehrer Being Derided Provides Tip That Leads To Lauer Arrest: She'll Get $5,000

NEW YORK, April 5—Rosa Weber, a German house maid with some degree of fondness for Adolf Hitler, emerged today as the only individual winner in division of the smuggling jackpot into which George Burns and Jack Benny, screen and radio stars, have tumbled almost $15,000 in duties and penalties.

It was Rosa who upset the appellate and brought the federal men on the run to open the smuggling probe which involved Burns, Benny and others and today she stood to collect as much as $5,000 in the role of government informer.

The government pays tipsters who pass along information on smugglers, 25 percent of the duties and penalties collected as a result of the tip and while Rosa hasn't received hers yet and nobody wants to talk about it officially, she is an off-the-record entry for a quarter of the cash handed over by the screen stars and by Mrs. Elma Lauer.

Rosa never suspected when she joined in the conversation at the home of Mrs. Lauer, wife of a supreme court justice, that she was laying the groundwork for a small personal fortune.

The conversation on that eventful evening centered about Adolf Hitler and the conversers were Mrs. Lauer, her husband, and Albert N. Chaperau.

Rosa was serving the soup and she got so angry at what the diners were saying about the German leader that she put down her tray and waded right into the conversation.

That was the end of Rosa's soup-serving career at the Lauers and the beginning of a large headache for most of the film colony and the Broadway crowd—people who never had heard of Rosa.

Without a thought of informers' fees but only burned to a crisp because of the incident at her employer's home, Rosa dashed down to the custom office and identified Mrs. Lauer as a smuggler.

Unfortunately for Mrs. Lauer, she had been caught smuggling

English Buy Up "Extras" After Hearing Aircraft Guns Mounted

LONDON, April 5—The Evening Standard declared today that Earl Stanhope, first lord of the admiralty, offered his resignation this morning as a result of his dramatic announcement last night that the fleet's anti-aircraft guns had been suddenly manned against a possible emergency. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, the Standard asserted, refused to accept Stanhope's resignation from the cabinet.

LONDON, April 5—A statement of regret by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain before a crowded House of Commons for the statement by Lord Stanhope, first lord of the admiralty, that anti-aircraft guns of the British fleet were "manned and ready" was expected today.

Chamberlain was expected to face the House of Commons this afternoon. Meanwhile, political circles buzzed with reports that the statement made by Lord Stanhope last night might bring about his resignation from the cabinet.

Government efforts to stifle the speech were made ineffectual by the decisions of the London News Chronicle and Daily Sketch to publish the remarks of the first lord of the admiralty in their final editions, which this morning sold like hot cakes in the streets of London.

Cabinet Discusses Albania

At 11 a. m. the cabinet met to discuss the Stanhope speech and other questions, particularly that of Italy's intentions toward Albania.

Lord Stanhope called on Chamberlain for a 40-minute talk before the meeting of the cabinet began. It was understood he did so at Chamberlain's request to enable a full discussion of the circumstances in advance of the full cabinet's deliberations.

Meanwhile, both Lord Stanhope and the admiralty declined further comment.

Nazis Say First Lord 'Agitating'

German Press Ironic, Bitter; Free City Scene Of Anger By Sympathizers

BERLIN, April 5—The dramatic declaration of Earl Stanhope, first lord of the British admiralty, that the British fleet's guns were fully manned against possible emergency was branded as "war agitation" today by the officially inspired German press.

German comment on the first lord's statement ranged from caustic irony to bitter criticism as the Lokal Anzeiger asserted that "the British action was an extremely grave violation of the peace policy."

Danzig Nazis Stone Polish Buildings

WARSAW, April 5—Protesting against the Polish-British negotiations in London, Nazi crowds in Danzig demonstrated violently, stoning and smashing windows of the building occupied by the Polish commissioner general in the free city, according to report received in Warsaw today.

The Nazis also assaulted the offices of the Polish official telegraphic agency and other Polish organizations in Danzig, including the Red Cross.

Swiss Call Women To Assist Army

GENEVA, April 5—For the first time in Swiss history, women were called on today by the Swiss federal council to aid voluntarily in auxiliary activity to bring the army to full efficiency.

The council appealed to the population of the nation to cooperate with the government. All citizens up to the age of sixty, including women, were engaged to volunteer for auxiliary services.

The present international situation, it was indicated, makes the extraordinary measure necessary. It was the first time that the women of Switzerland had ever been asked to participate in military activities.

French To Reinforce Alexandretta Area

PARIS, April 5—The French government has decided to dispatch a cruiser to Alexandretta to reinforce the French garrison of 1,500 men presently stationed there, it was understood today.

BRITISH FLEET READY TO WAR, STANHOPE SAYS

Prime Minister May Demand Resignation; "Apology" Being Prepared

NO EXPLANATION VOICED

English Buy Up "Extras" After Hearing Aircraft Guns Mounted

LONDON, April 5—The Evening Standard declared today that Earl Stanhope, first lord of the admiralty, offered his resignation this morning as a result of his dramatic announcement last night that the fleet's anti-aircraft guns had been suddenly manned against a possible emergency. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, the Standard asserted, refused to accept Stanhope's resignation from the cabinet.

LONDON, April 5—A statement of regret by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain before a crowded House of Commons for the statement by Lord Stanhope, first lord of the admiralty, that anti-aircraft guns of the British fleet were "manned and ready" was expected today.

Chamberlain was expected to face the House of Commons this afternoon. Meanwhile, political circles buzzed with reports that the statement made by Lord Stanhope last night might bring about his resignation from the cabinet.

Government efforts to stifle the speech were made ineffectual by the decisions of the London News Chronicle and Daily Sketch to publish the remarks of the first lord of the admiralty in their final editions, which this morning sold like hot cakes in the streets of London.

Cabinet Discusses Albania

At 11 a. m. the cabinet met to discuss the Stanhope speech and other questions, particularly that of Italy's intentions toward Albania.

Lord Stanhope called on Chamberlain for a 40-minute talk before the meeting of the cabinet began. It was understood he did so at Chamberlain's request to enable a full discussion of the circumstances in advance of the full cabinet's deliberations.

Meanwhile, both Lord Stanhope and the admiralty declined further comment.

ther explanations to the press, advising all inquiries to await Chamberlain's statement in the House of Commons.

It was forecast authoritatively that Chamberlain, while expressing regret before the House of Commons for the circumstances of Lord Stanhope's speech and the manner of its attempted suppression, will probably explain that Lord Stanhope merely meant to emphasize the readiness of the fleet at all times.

Chamberlain, it was predicted, will add that there was no immediate question of any emergency being foreseen.

At the same time, sensational treatment by other newspapers of facts regarding the speech, and of the official efforts to suppress it, served to bring more attention on it than if no effort had been made to prevent its reproduction.

Statement Recalled
Members of parliament prepared to probe into the statement of Lord Stanhope who made his sensational declaration before a group of guests aboard the aircraft carrier Ark Royal at the Portsmouth naval base. He said:

"Shortly before I left the admiralty, it became necessary to give orders to man the anti-aircraft guns of the fleet so as to be ready for anything that might happen."

Pressed for an explanation of his statement, Lord Stanhope replied:

"The official answer is that the fleet is taking precautions and that the fleet is always ready."

In London, however, a government official declared Lord Stanhope had left for London thinking an order for manning the anti-aircraft guns had been issued, but that nothing of the sort had been done.

Considerable mystery still surrounded the entire affair, but it seemed apparent that, whatever the reasons for the conflict between Lord Stanhope and the government, his statement represented a certain amount of anxiety in government circles over the current international situation.

This apprehension was attributed to reports from France and other advices reaching Whitehall to the effect that Italy and Germany are engaging in activities which may involve the Adriatic and Mediterranean.

It also revealed the British navy is alert against any aerial attack from any quarter.

Beck Still in London
Meanwhile, conversations between Polish Foreign Minister Josef Beck and British authorities continued amid an atmosphere of rising tension. Officials predicted an Anglo-Polish mutual alliance agreement probably will be signed this week.

The proposed Anglo-Polish agreement would be a major step toward the "stop Hitler" bloc of nations Great Britain is seeking to form in an effort to bring about an international front against aggression.

Intense political and diplomatic activity went forward in London as the government also turned its attention to Italian moves regarding Albania and the possibility that Italian troops may be sent to that country.

It was expected this question will be thoroughly hashed over by the time today's cabinet meeting has ended.

British negotiations with Poland and the Italo-Albanian affair were overshadowed in London, however, by repercussions resulting from Lord Stanhope's brief remarks. Excitement on this issue reached the proportions of a first-class political sensation.

Members of parliament were expected to grill government spokesmen on what the first lord meant, and whether his speech, indicated, as it appeared to do, that the international situation is serious enough to justify exceptional measures by Great Britain.

PODUNK LOCATED
ITHACA, N. Y.—Podunk cannot capitalize on its name like Santa Claus, Indiana, but such a hamlet exists here in Tompkins County. Many a person humorously has called some small town "Podunk" without knowing that one actually exists. Podunk at one time was a farming hamlet with a feed mill located on Frontenac Creek near Trumansburg. But now the feed mill is gone, and only two or three houses remain. There is no postoffice, country store, or railroad in Podunk so the place is virtually not on the map.

been decided on by the Italian and Albanian governments.

Ciano added that the present international situation had caused anxiety to both Italy and Albania, with whom Italy has a treaty of mutual support.

The Italian foreign minister also told Lord Perth that Italy had no object other than safeguarding the security of Albania and Italian interests there. He added that Italian relations with Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia were friendly.

London diplomatic circles feared, however, that both Yugoslavia and Greece might be threatened by a joint Italo-German move in which one step would be to send Italian forces to Albania.

Unofficial circles in London reported that Germany has assembled considerable forces of armed troops in Austria near the Yugoslav and Italian frontiers. These reports also said Italy is assembling troops on her own side of the Yugoslav and Austrian frontiers.

It was understood, however, that the Italian government diplomatically informed the Belgrade government that Italy is urging King Zog of Albania to accept the formal protection of Italy and that no hostilities are intended against Yugoslavia.

order to call the attention of former soldiers to the fact that they may enlist in this reserve corps of "minute men" and, thereby, retain their same rank and prerogatives which their service gave them when they left the army.

The war department considers this reserve corps as a vital and essential part of the initial protective force as it will be composed of trained soldiers, particularly technicians which in today's highly mechanized armies make up the backbone of an effective force.

Such trained technicians, the war department explained, are not otherwise available immediately on the outbreak of an emergency but must be trained over a long period. Without sufficient trained technicians at the outset of an emergency the time lag required to train new recruits might conceivably prove a vital factor in the successful prosecution of a war.

18,000 Sought

The initial call embraced in the appeal is for 18,000 ex-enlisted men to enter the corps of minute men this year. Additional units will be taken in each year thereafter for five years.

The enlisted reserve was authorized by the last congress and funds for setting it up have just become available.

BRITISH FLEET READY TO WAR, STANHOPE SAYS

Prime Minister May Demand
Resignation; "Apology"
Being Prepared

ther explanations to the press, advising all inquiries to await Chamberlain's statement in the House of Commons.

It was forecast authoritatively that Chamberlain, while expressing regret before the House of Commons for the circumstances of Lord Stanhope's speech and the manner of its attempted suppression, will probably explain that Lord Stanhope merely meant to emphasize the readiness of the fleet at all times.

Chamberlain, it was predicted, will add that there was no immediate question of any emergency being foreseen.

At the same time, sensational treatment by other newspapers of facts regarding the speech, and of the official efforts to suppress it, served to bring more attention on it than if no effort had been made to prevent its reproduction.

Statement Recalled
Members of parliament prepared to probe into the statement of Lord Stanhope who made his sensational declaration before a group of guests aboard the aircraft carrier Ark Royal at the Portsmouth naval base. He said:

"Shortly before I left the admiralty, it became necessary to give orders to man the anti-aircraft guns of the fleet so as to be ready for anything that might happen."

Pressed for an explanation of his statement, Lord Stanhope replied:

"The official answer is that the fleet is taking precautions and that the fleet is always ready."

In London, however, a government official declared Lord Stanhope had left for London thinking an order for manning the anti-aircraft guns had been issued, but that nothing of the sort had been done.

Considerable mystery still surrounded the entire affair, but it seemed apparent that, whatever the reasons for the conflict between Lord Stanhope and the government, his statement represented a certain amount of anxiety in government circles over the current international situation.

This apprehension was attributed to reports from France and other sources reaching Whitehall to the effect that Italy and Germany are engaging in activities which may involve the Adriatic and Mediterranean.

It also revealed the British navy is alert against any aerial attack from any quarter.

Beck Still in London
Meanwhile, conversations between Polish Foreign Minister Josef Beck and British authorities continued amid an atmosphere of rising tension. Officials predicted an Anglo-Polish mutual alliance agreement probably will be signed this week.

The proposed Anglo-Polish agreement would be a major step toward the "stop Hitler" bloc of nations Great Britain is seeking to form in an effort to bring about an international front against aggression.

Intense political and diplomatic activity went forward in London as the government also turned its attention to Italian moves regarding Albania and the possibility that Italian troops may be sent to that country.

It was expected this question will be thoroughly hashed over by the time today's cabinet meeting has ended.

British negotiations with Poland and the Italo-Albanian affair were overshadowed in London, however, by repercussions resulting from Lord Stanhope's brief remarks. Excitement on this issue reached the proportions of a first-class political sensation.

Members of parliament were expected to grill government spokesmen on what the first lord meant, and whether his speech, indicated, as it appeared to do, that the international situation is serious enough to justify exceptional measures by Great Britain.

PODUNK LOCATED

been decided on by the Italian and Albanian governments.

Ciano added that the present international situation had caused anxiety to both Italy and Albania, with whom Italy has a treaty of mutual support.

The Italian foreign minister also told Lord Perth that Italy had no object other than safeguarding the security of Albania and Italian interests there. He added that Italian relations with Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia were friendly.

London diplomatic circles feared, however, that both Yugoslavia and Greece might be threatened by a joint Italo-German move in which one step would be to send Italian forces to Albania.

Unofficial circles in London reported that Germany has assembled considerable forces of armed troops in Austria near the Yugoslav and Italian frontiers. These reports also said Italy is assembling troops on her own side of the Yugoslav and Austrian frontiers.

It was understood, however, that the Italian government diplomatically informed the Belgrade government that Italy is urging King Zog of Albania to accept the formal protection of Italy and that no hostilities are intended against Yugoslavia.

previously and had paid a substantial fine so the customs officers after taking an affidavit from Rosa went up to the justice's house to have a look-see.

From Rosa's complaint and that preliminary investigating stemmed the major smuggling probe which, before ended with the sentencing of Burns and Benny on guilty pleas and the anti-climax sentencing of Mrs. Lauer and Chaperau—identified as Shapiro—involved a considerable number of names found more often in lights than on grand jury records.

Because all of those finally indicted, pleaded guilty, Rosa never was called to testify and eventually faded out of the picture but today she stands to collect a considerable sum for the information she gave.

order to call the attention of former soldiers to the fact that they may enlist in this reserve corps of "minute men" and, thereby, retain their same rank and prerogatives which their service gave them when they left the army.

The war department considers this reserve corps as a vital and essential part of the initial protective force as it will be composed of trained soldiers, particularly technicians which in today's highly mechanized armies make up the backbone of an effective force.

Such trained technicians, the war department explained, are not otherwise available immediately on the outbreak of an emergency but must be trained over a long period. Without sufficient trained technicians at the outset of an emergency the time lag required to train new recruits might conceivably prove a vital factor in the successful prosecution of a war.

18,000 Sought
The initial call embraced in the appeal is for 18,000 ex-enlisted men to enter the corps of minute men this year. Additional units will be taken in each year thereafter for five years.

The enlisted reserve was authorized by the last congress and funds for setting it up have just become available.

basis for Republican claims that the election augured success for the party in 1940 in Illinois. In the light of the congressional elections last Fall, when overwhelming Democratic strength in Chicago and throughout Cook county nullified G. O. O. P. would stand an excellent chance of winning the state.

FORMER RELIEF DIRECTOR SEEKS IOWA RESIDENCE

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., April 5—A casual admission by Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins that he intended shortly to transfer his voting residence from New York to Iowa apparently had started the 1940 presidential campaign off in high gear, so far as the Democrats are concerned.

Knowing that Hopkins is a prime favorite of President Roosevelt's, and is recuperating here from an attack of intestinal flu, Democratic leaders in Washington and elsewhere bargained Warm Springs today for an "inside" estimate of the significance of Hopkins' decision to move back to the state of his birth.

General trend of the inquiries ran about as follows: "Is the President seriously promoting Hopkins as his heir apparent in '40, or is the White House inner circle attempting to bedevil and mystify such Democratic party stalwarts as Vice President Garner, Postmaster General Farley and others of their political philosophy?"

Hopkins came South with Mr. Roosevelt and has been his sole house guest thus far during the course of the President's Easter holiday.

MEXICO CITY, April 5—President Lazaro Cardenas of Mexico moved speedily today to break up an alleged attempt by Spanish General Francisco Franco to establish a Spanish Fascist organization in this country.

Cardenas issued an order expelling from the country three of Franco's lieutenants, Alejandro Villanueva Plata, inspector general of the Falange (Fascist) movement in Latin America, Jose Celorio Ortega and Genaro Riestra, Falange representatives in Mexico.

Agents of the interior ministry took them into custody and put them aboard a train for Vera Cruz. They will be sent back to Spain on the first outgoing steamer.

"In view of their political activities," said an official statement, "carried out in our country in flagrant violation of our laws, President Cardenas... ordered immediate expulsion of said foreigners because he considers their permanent residence in the national territory inconvenient."

The constitutional article under which the president acted provides for expulsion of "pernicious foreigners."

Before the order was issued there was an outburst of violence in which 1,000 Mexican workers attacked the Spanish Casino Calle Isabel La Catolica, smashing every window in the building.

Scores of policemen rushed to the scene, dispersing the mob with tear gas.

VOICE ...of the... PEOPLE

Circleville, Ohio, April 5, 1939

To the Editor:

The Circleville Rotary Club has been active for a good many years in the program for assisting crippled children. Rotarians have always manifested a generous interest in this movement which is aimed at relieving unnecessary suffering and at providing opportunities for the handicapped children of Ohio. Whenever a deserving case has been called to the attention of our local Club, the response has been prompt and generous.

This same spirit of generous consideration for unfortunate boys and girls who have been deprived of certain opportunities and pleasures which are the normal lot of physically able children has been shown by men and women of our community who do not happen to be afflicted with Rotary. Every year when the campaign for Easter Seals and for Easter Dance tickets is under way, the undertaking benefits from the active assistance and co-operation of every civic leader in and out of Rotary. In other words, this Crippled Children program is not just a Rotary program—it is a community program that has attracted the interest and support of all our people, a community program in which the people of this city have repeatedly demonstrated their faith.

Space will not permit any extensive review of the broad and varied program of the International Society for Crippled Children, nor is it possible in a few paragraphs to cover the great work that is being done by the Ohio Society for Crippled Children. However, it is hoped that this short letter may serve to remind old friends of the Society that the good work is still going on and that they should continue their interest and support—and it is also hoped that these lines may enlist the interest and co-operation of men and women who have hitherto been unaware of the organization's splendid year-round campaign to help the crippled, physically handicapped children of Ohio.

The Ohio Society for Crippled Children is a non-profit corporation, maintained and operated entirely for the benefit of the unfortunate boys and girls who need physical and occupational rehabilitation. The friends of the Ohio Society believe that if we rehabilitate the crippled children of today, we shall have fewer public charges tomorrow—fewer unemployed who must be cared for. We feel that it is not only humanitarian—but also good sound business to promote this kind of insurance—this best kind of social insurance.

As I have said so many times in the past, there is no good reason why the support of this unquestionably worthwhile undertaking should be limited to the membership of any one or group of organizations. Every church member should have a share in this work. Every tax-payer—every educational leader—every teacher—every doctor—every lawyer, business man or woman, every citizen should be proud to be a part of this fine organization. For obviously when we improve the lot of the unfortunate child we are making our State a pleasanter and much better State in which to live and in which to do business.

We should look on Ohio as a big community of interests in which all of us are stockholders. We each have an interest in the welfare of the State and its parts, including both the physical parts such as lands and buildings and also the human parts which include both the able-bodied and the disabled. The able-bodied can take care of themselves, but the disabled must be helped—and the more help we give to the disabled when they are young, the less we shall have to give them when they are old. As a matter of pure self-interest, it can be argued quite logically that everyone who has a taxable interest in the State of Ohio should be in favor of contributing toward the promotion of this campaign to provide funds for the better care and training of these crippled youngsters who are unable to obtain these necessary aids for themselves.

The Ohio Plan for the restoration of disabled boys and girls is known the world over. It has been tried and has been proved sound, practical and effective. It has been the model for similar work in other states. It has functioned for almost twenty years, to the benefit of the people of Ohio. It cannot continue without the financial assistance of the people of Ohio.

The Easter Crippled Children Seal, like the well known Anti-Tuberculosis Seal, offers a convenient method whereby the public at large can participate in the work of the Ohio Society. Everyone can afford to buy at least a few of these seals—and every penny that is spent for a seal is just that much more toward the purchase of health and happiness and useful living for some boy or girl who deserves a break.

No one can boast that he has the right spirit toward his friends and neighbors if he can look upon one of these crippled children seals without wanting to contribute toward this great work. The design on the seal shows a crippled child with his crutch sitting on the threshold of opportunity. You can look at that picture and think that there, but for the grace of God, you might be sitting—or one of your loved ones might be.

A sheet of 100 Crippled Children's seals sells for $1.00, or a cent apiece. A portion of the sales receipts from this community will come back here to buy and repair braces, shoes, wheelchairs, crutches, etc., for youngsters who for one reason or another are ineligible for aid from other existing public agencies or funds. The receipts from the sale of Crippled Children Seals are not used for any purpose which is or might be a duplication of work for which public funds are appropriated or allotted.

It is our responsibility to support this campaign—to buy these seals—to urge our friends and neighbors to buy them—to assure the continuance of this fine work until every crippled child in Ohio has been brought into contact with the modern scientific facilities for treatment and rehabilitation.

Buy as many seals as you can afford to buy—and with every purchase, bear in mind that you are helping a crippled child to regain and enjoy the same opportunities and pleasures that you have enjoyed.

BUY CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S SEALS!

Sincerely, Fred C. Clark, chairman Rotary Club Crippled Children Seal Campaign

VILLAGE TO ADD THREE FIREMEN

Chief William Cloud Says Force To Be Increased; Other News Notes

By S. D. FRIDLEY Phone Ashville 79

The Ashville fire department now composed of twelve members is to be increased to fifteen, so Fire Chief William Cloud told us. The present members of the organization are William Cloud, chief; Don Campbell, Lewis Poling, George Kuhlwein, Desmer Spangler, Rancy Petty, C. W. Fortner, Hoadly Brintlinger, James McNeal, Floyd Hook, Elwood Morrison and Russell Hoover.

Charles Koch, wife and babe are new residents of East Main street, occupying the Mrs. Emma Wright dwelling. Ivan McCarthy is now a resident of Ashville, arriving here from Chicago yesterday. He expects to make Ashville his permanent home. It will be recalled that Ivan and Miss Marietta Fortner just a few weeks ago were, as newlyweds, given a free ride all over town and the countryside. Mrs. McCarthy retains her old place at the creamery dining room. Miss Myra Wagner is here on a short vacation visiting at the home of her mother. She is in nurse training at a Coshocton hospital.

Several pupils of the local high school with some of the teachers, are planning a trip to Washington. Twenty-five or thirty, maybe, they told us, and if plans work out as made, will leave Chillicothe by train on Friday evening, April 14, and return home on the following Sunday evening.

And too, there is another excursion all planned and ready for action. The typing class in the high school commercial department with their teacher, Nolan Murphy, will be on an outing to the Capital City this Friday visiting the points of interest there.

Went out to the East Side where there is plenty of action now in the building line. A big, machine operated shovel was scooping out the dirt from a 37x44 cellar in truck load quantities at each bite. We are making what we think is a sure guess, in stating that this is the first shovel of this kind to do cellar excavating on a dwelling in Ashville. Right or wrong? And when this modern and sizable dwelling is all ready, it will be occupied by Harry and Mrs. Sark, its owners.

And this is not all the building in action out there. The dwelling of Cecil and Mrs. Scott is having its face and everything lifted. Bill Litten was there with all his house raising equipment and had his lifting job about completed. And without going into detail this dwelling is to be completely modernized and take its place among the other fine ones in "millionaire row." Yes, we know about Clyde and Mrs. Hoover's new dwelling on the West Side and will get to it soon.

PROCLAMATION

In recognition of the religious importance of Good Friday observance and in conformity with a yearly custom, I do hereby call upon the business houses of Circleville to close their doors between the hours of 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. Friday afternoon, April 7, and request our citizens to join in the various religious services that will be in progress at that time.

WILLIAM B. CADY, Mayor.

For obviously when we improve the lot of the unfortunate child we are making our State a pleasanter and much better State in which to live and in which to do business.

We should look on Ohio as a big community of interests in which all of us are stockholders. We each have an interest in the welfare of the State and its parts, including both the physical parts such as lands and buildings and also the human parts which include both the able-bodied and the disabled. The able-bodied can take care of themselves, but the disabled must be helped—and the more help we give to the disabled when they are young, the less we shall have to give them when they are old. As a matter of pure self-interest, it can be argued quite logically that everyone who has a taxable interest in the State of Ohio should be in favor of contributing toward the promotion of this campaign to provide funds for the better care and training of these crippled youngsters who are unable to obtain these necessary aids for themselves.

The Ohio Plan for the restoration of disabled boys and girls is known the world over. It has been tried and has been proved sound, practical and effective. It has been the model for similar work in other states. It has functioned for almost twenty years, to the benefit of the people of Ohio. It cannot continue without the financial assistance of the people of Ohio.

The Easter Crippled Children Seal, like the well known Anti-Tuberculosis Seal, offers a convenient method whereby the public at large can participate in the work of the Ohio Society. Everyone can afford to buy at least a few of these seals—and every penny that is spent for a seal is just that much more toward the purchase of health and happiness and useful living for some boy or girl who deserves a break.

No one can boast that he has the right spirit toward his friends and neighbors if he can look upon one of these crippled children seals without wanting to contribute toward this great work. The design on the seal shows a crippled child with his crutch sitting on the threshold of opportunity. You can look at that picture and think that there, but for the grace of God, you might be sitting—or one of your loved ones might be.

A sheet of 100 Crippled Children's seals sells for $1.00, or a cent apiece. A portion of the sales receipts from this community will come back here to buy and repair braces, shoes, wheelchairs, crutches, etc., for youngsters who for one reason or another are ineligible for aid from other existing public agencies or funds. The receipts from the sale of Crippled Children Seals are not used for any purpose which is or might be a duplication of work for which public funds are appropriated or allotted.

It is our responsibility to support this campaign—to buy these seals—to urge our friends and neighbors to buy them—to assure the continuance of this fine work until every crippled child in Ohio has been brought into contact with the modern scientific facilities for treatment and rehabilitation.

Buy as many seals as you can afford to buy—and with every purchase, bear in mind that you are helping a crippled child to regain and enjoy the same opportunities and pleasures that you have enjoyed.

BUY CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S SEALS!

Sincerely,
Fred C. Clark, chairman
Rotary Club Crippled Children Seal Campaign

Several pupils of the local high school with some of the teachers, are planning a trip to Washington. Twenty-five or thirty, maybe, they told us, and if plans work out as made, will leave Chillicothe by train on Friday evening, April 14, and return home on the following Sunday evening.

And too, there is another excursion all planned and ready for action. The typing class in the high school commercial department with their teacher, Nolan Murphy, will be on an outing to the Capital City this Friday evening, April 14, and return home on the following Sunday evening.

Went out to the East Side where there is plenty of action now in the building line. A big, machine operated shovel was scooping out the dirt from a 37x44 cellar in truck load quantities at each bite. We are making what we think is a sure guess, in stating that this is the first shovel of this kind to do cellar excavating on a dwelling in Ashville. Right or wrong? And when this modern and sizable dwelling is all ready, it will be occupied by Harry and Mrs. Sark, its owners.

And this is not all the building in action out there. The dwelling of Cecil and Mrs. Scott is having its face and everything lifted. Bill Litten was there with all his house raising equipment and had his lifting job about completed. And without going into detail this dwelling is to be completely modernized and take its place among the other fine ones in "millionaire row." Yes, we know about Clyde and Mrs. Hoover's new dwelling on the West Side and will get to it soon.

The Ashville fire department now composed of twelve members is to be increased to fifteen, so Fire Chief William Cloud told us. The present members of the organization are William Cloud, chief; Don Campbell, Lewis Poling, George Kuhlwein, Desmer Spangler, Rancy Petty, C. W. Fortner, Hoadly Brintlinger, James McNeal, Floyd Hook, Elwood Morrison and Russell Hoover.

Ashville—Charles Koch, wife and babe are now residents of East Main street, occupying the Mrs. Emma Wright dwelling. . . Ivan McCarthy is now a resident of Ashville, arriving here from Chicago yesterday. He expects to make Ashville his permanent home. It will be recalled that Ivan and Miss Marietta Fortner just a few weeks ago were, as newlyweds, given a free ride all over town and the countryside. Mrs. McCarthy retains her old place at the creamery dining room. . . Miss Myra Wagner is here on a short vacation visiting at the home of her mother. She is in nurse training at a Coshocton hospital. . .

IDLENESS IN LONDON

WAR threats are not the only big trouble England is having. The unemployment which began 20 years ago still continues. Recently there were 2,000,000 workers without jobs, in spite of all the armament and military recruiting. The "dole" about which we used to hear so much, in the deepest depression, has never been abandoned, and many Englishmen doubt that it ever will be.

Idle workmen do not tamely submit, either. There is nearly always some sort of demonstration going on around No. 10 Downing Street, which might be called the "British White House." Recently a crowd of ragged men broke into Grosvenor House, a luxurious hotel frequented by many Americans, shouted for work, and lay down on the thick carpets in front of the startled guests. There was similar action at the Savoy Hotel, with scores of jobless men lying on the front steps and covering themselves with banners on which demands for work were printed.

In one such demonstration there were banners reading, "Unemployed—Leisure Is No Pleasure." It isn't—for anybody. And it is the greatest evil that capitalist society is now struggling with.

MEN'S CLOTHES

CLOTHES have long been regarded by restive individualists as too totalitarian. He-men have always fought against the tyranny of tailors, but it never did much good. It takes an awful big man to dictate to a custom tailor; and as for the ready-made trade, customers naturally have to choose from what there is. If they rebel, they look funny and sloppy, so it's no use.

This year, though, there is reasonable amount of hope for the individualists. A spokesman for the national tailors represents his profession as turning human. "The whole idea of the tailor as the arbiter who dictates correct styles for men," he says, "will be supplanted by the more reasonable attitude that good tailors are expert craftsmen who are in position to make suggestions, as well as capable of carrying out the innovations the customers suggest."

There are suggestions of a catch in that, of course. The fellow who will wear the clothes is going to be allowed to make an occasional suggestion, and then the accommodating tailor will "carry it out." And probably, as usual, by the time he has done so, the customer will find that he's gone fashionable in spite of himself.

But then, if he had his own way, he'd probably look funny. Next to a man's

World At A Glance

No sooner had Gen. Franco's forces occupied Madrid than British Gibraltar took alarm. The Franco-ites, it seems immediately began a throwing up of defenses along Gibraltar's edge in a very peculiar way. That is, are they intended for defensive purposes alone? Or do they contemplate an attempted grab of the historic stronghold of John Bull? Here's a fresh headache for the London government in particular, but in general for whatever remains of the peace-loving world. If it forecasts a move by the new Spanish government to gain possession of the famous rock at the western end of the Mediterranean it means trouble compared with which the just-ending war on the Iberian peninsula will seem like small potatoes. Not that Franco signifies. But if he really plans the capture of that little corner of Spain, it necessarily follows that he has Italy back of him, and Germany back of Italy. It starts the threatened all-around European war, in short.

That Mussolini planned the early acquisition of Gibraltar wasn't anticipated. He wants it, of course, to give him complete control of the inland sea. Nevertheless, it wasn't imagined that he'd act so soon. Supposing that that's his scheme, it's much as if some po-

COTTON FIRMS OPPOSE SUBSIDY

WASHINGTON—Senator Allen Ellender of Louisiana pulled his punch in the debate on subsidizing cotton exports. If he had wanted to tell all, he could have accused two leading American firms of opposing the subsidy because of their interest in Brazilian cotton.

The two firms are Anderson, Clayton & Co., of Houston, and McFadden & Co., of Philadelphia. They have played a leading role in the expansion of cotton in Brazil, where production has been stimulated by the importation of $2,750,000 of U. S. cotton ginning machinery in the past five years.

In cotton selling these two firms not only stand high in the U. S. market, but Anderson, Clayton is the second largest and McFadden the third largest exporter of Brazilian cotton.

Application of export subsidies by the United States would appreciably reduce the price of U. S. cotton in the world market, and thus create fresh competition for other exporting countries—and for U. S. traders in those countries.

So operating quietly behind the scenes, Anderson-Clayton and McFadden are exerting powerful pressure to kill the export subsidy.

RIBBER

You have to be tough-hided if you are a presidential candidate in Congress.

Though Representative Bruce Barton, dapper New York Republican and Representative Jack Cochran, veteran Missouri Democrat, are good friends, Cochran never passes up a chance to rib his younger colleague about his White House ambitions. Usually Barton takes the joshing good-naturedly, but the other day he blew up.

He was striding through the Speaker's Lobby outside the House chamber when Cochran, at the other end, spotted him and yelled in a loud voice, "Oh, Mr. President, Mr. President, just a moment!"

Barton automatically turned around just as everyone in the place looked up and saw him stop.

"How are you, President Barton?" belted Cochran again as the crowd tittered. Barton flushed angrily, turned on his heel and snapped, "Oh, shut up!"

More Cancer Deaths Reported Every Year

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
FROM THE 50,000 letters from the public asking information about cancer, the following, concerning distribution and diagnosis, were the most frequent. Honest answers accompany them.

1. A persistent lump, especially in a woman's breast.
2. A sore that does not heal, particularly about the face, mouth or lips.
3. An unnatural bloodstained discharge from a natural body opening.
4. Sudden changes in size or color of moles and warts.

Are all breast lumps cancer? Not more than 10 to 15 per cent are cancer. Only by a careful examination can it be definitely determined.

Do freckles ever turn into cancer? Simple freckles do not. However, flat moles containing certain pigment and looking like dark freckles may become cancers and should be watched.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Second Place
How does cancer compare with other diseases as a cause of death? It occupies second place, as seen from the following table of deaths from leading causes in the United States in 1936:

Heart disease	341,350
CANCER	142,613
Pneumonia	119,378
Kidney disease	106,865
Apoplexy	104,334
Tuberculosis	71,527

Why do more women than men die from cancer? Because it occurs so frequently in the breast and uterus of women. Nearly 60 per cent of cancer deaths in the United States occur in women.

Are all growths cancer? No. Tumors are of two kinds—benign and usually harmless, and malignant or cancer.

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR
NOBODY WAS in sight when Lona and Mrs. Morris peered out the back door in their attempt to evade the reporters who had invaded the Morris home while Lona waited for news of Jim. Cautiously the two stepped out onto the porch, walking on tip-toe, like a pair of sneak thieves leaving the scene of their depredations.

From the front hall where the reporters were trying to catch a glimpse of Lona they heard Dinah's laugh ring out, and they knew the girl was covering their retreat. Breathing fast, they made it down the steps and out through the back yard grass to the garden next door.

They went through the back yards for the rest of the block, and dusk was beginning to cast its solemn pall over the quiet, homey street Lona had learned to love so well as they gained the corner below the Morris home and struck out swiftly toward town. From the direction of the square a faint shout was swelling and Lona winced, her hand closing on Mrs. Morris' arm with a punishing grip. Barely audible though it was, she knew that monotonous cry too well to mistake it for anything but what it was.

"Ex-tra! . . . Ex-tra!" In another few minutes the boys would be all over the place. She quickened her already hurrying steps to such a pace that Mrs. Morris could scarcely keep up with her.

"The paper's out," she said in explanation. "An extra! Can't you hear them?"

"Perhaps we should buy one," Mrs. Morris suggested, her voice curiously calm against the excitement that showed in Lona's clipped tones. "After all, you should know just what they are printing."

"No, I never want to see a paper again! If you only knew what they've done to me. Extras, pictures—I only want Jim!"

They were silent after that. Curiously enough, nobody of the lottering few in the streets, seemed to know them, and they slipped up almost into the shadow of the antiquated city building which housed the police station before even one of the howling newsboys accosted them.

"Paper?" he offered. "Read all about it! Suicide! . . . Um-h-h-h. . . . Confesses. . . . Blah-h-h!" He held out a thin sheet doubled craftily to hide the headlines, and Lona whirled on Mrs. Morris.

"What did he say?" she asked through stiff lips.

"Suicide—um-blah-blah—confession. . . . The boy was still intoning, thrusting his wares toward a new prospect who had appeared on the street.

"Suicide! . . . Confesses! He can't mean Jim!" A sick desperation took hold of Lona. Her lips trembled, and her legs threatened to give way as they hurried on up the city hall steps. New fear gripped her tired mind. "Suicide! Was that the reason they had not heard from the police? Was that the 'big news' the reporters were trying to tell Dinah?"

"Please, child, you must be calm," Mrs. Morris tried to hold her back without success. "You must not get so excited. I'm sure there is a mistake."

The desk sergeant was seated phlegmatically fingering a pencil when she rushed in. Nobody else was in sight and her fears tightened.

"Where is Jim Rankin?" she demanded. "I must see him!"

The sergeant's eyes opened wide and the front legs of the tilted chair upon which he had been lounging hit the floor with a bang. "Mrs. Rankin! . . . Say, we've been tryin' to get you on the telephone. Where've you been? They want you."

"Jim? Is he—?" The question failed to come through Lona's stiff lips.

"You're to come right in here," The sergeant was profusely polite. "They're waitin' for you. They want you right in." He ushered them toward a closed door behind which rose the murmur of voices.

For a moment Lona stood irresolutely, studying his face. "Wait a minute," she begged, suddenly, as his hand closed over the door knob. "Tell me first, is he—is Jim all right?"

She couldn't go through that door without knowing what she had to face. "Is he—alive?"

The sergeant whirled to look at her. "Alive!" Astonishment was in his voice. His stolid face was comically incredulous. "Say, don't you know what's happened?" he demanded, unbelievably. "Ain't nobody told you the news?"

"News?" Lona's mind whirled again. "What is the news?" she began to say when one of the yelling newsboys from the street outside opened the Main street entrance and popped a ragged head inside.

"Extra!" he bawled, and the sergeant motioned him inside.

"Don't tell me you haven't read this?" he demanded, pushing a sheet printed in black type into her hand. For a moment she stared down at it and the letters seemed to dance before her eyes.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very lively and happy year, with romance, love-making, social or artistic pursuits demanding paramount attention. Great cast, despite some extravagance pleasure and happiness are fore-and indulgence. Under highly-stimulated energies and initiative much might be accomplished in new propositions, but do not permit violence or recklessness to overrule calm deliberation.

A child born on this day may have much energy, enterprise, initiative and constructive ability, although it may be disposed to divert such forces and faculties into channels of personal indulgence and gratifications. It should have much attraction for the opposite sex.

IDLENESS IN LONDON

WAR threats are not the only big trouble England is having. The unemployment which began 20 years ago still continues. Recently there were 2,000,000 workers without jobs, in spite of all the armament and military recruiting. The "dole" about which we used to hear so much, in the deepest depression, has never been abandoned, and many Englishmen doubt that it ever will be.

Idle workmen do not tamely submit, either. There is nearly always some sort of demonstration going on around No. 10 Downing Street, which might be called the "British White House." Recently a crowd of ragged men broke into Grosvenor House, a luxurious hotel frequented by many Americans, shouted for work, and lay down on the thick carpets in front of the startled guests. There was similar action at the Savoy Hotel, with scores of jobless men lying on the front steps and covering themselves with banners on which demands for work were printed.

In one such demonstration there were banners reading, "Unemployed—Leisure Is No Pleasure." It isn't—for anybody. And it is the greatest evil that capitalist society is now struggling with.

MEN'S CLOTHES

CLOTHES have long been regarded by restive individualists as too totalitarian. He-men have always fought against the tyranny of tailors, but it never did much good. It takes an awful big man to dictate to a custom tailor; and as for the ready-made trade, customers naturally have to choose from what there is. If they rebel, they look funny and sloppy, so it's no use.

This year, though, there is reasonable amount of hope for the individualists. A spokesman for the national tailors represents his profession as turning human. "The whole idea of the tailor as the arbiter who dictates correct styles for men," he says, "will be supplanted by the more reasonable attitude that good tailors are expert craftsmen who are in position to make suggestions, as well as capable of carrying out the innovations the customers suggest."

There are suggestions of a catch in that, of course. The fellow who will wear the clothes is going to be allowed to make an occasional suggestion, and then the accommodating tailor will "carry it out." And probably, as usual, by the time he has done so, the customer will find that he's gone fashionable in spite of himself.

But then, if he had his own way, he'd probably look funny. Next to a man's

COTTON FIRMS OPPOSE SUBSIDY

WASHINGTON—Senator Allen Ellender of Louisiana pulled his punch in the debate on subsidizing cotton exports. If he had wanted to tell all, he could have accused two leading American firms of opposing the subsidy because of their interest in Brazilian cotton.

The two firms are Anderson, Clayton & Co., of Houston, and McFadden & Co., of Philadelphia. They have played a leading role in the expansion of cotton in Brazil, where production has been stimulated by the importation of $2,750,000 of U. S. cotton ginning machinery in the past five years.

In cotton selling these two firms not only stand high in the U. S. market, but Anderson, Clayton is the second largest and McFadden the third largest exporter of Brazilian cotton.

Application of export subsidies by the United States would appreciably reduce the price of U. S. cotton in the world market, and thus create fresh competition for other exporting countries—and for U. S. traders in those countries.

So operating quietly behind the scenes, Anderson-Clayton and McFadden are exerting powerful pressure to kill the export subsidy.

RIBBER

You have to be tough-hided if you are a presidential candidate in Congress.

Though Representative Bruce Barton, dapper New York Republican and Representative Jack Cochran, veteran Missouri Democrat, are good friends, Cochran never passes up a chance to rib his younger colleague about his White House ambitions. Usually Barton takes the joshing good-naturedly, but the other day he blew up.

He was striding through the Speaker's Lobby outside the House chamber when Cochran, at the other end, spotted him and yelled in a loud voice, "Oh, Mr. President, Mr. President, just a moment!"

Barton automatically turned around and saw him stop.

"How are you, President Barton?" belated Cochran again as the crowd tittered. Barton flushed angrily, turned on his heel and snapped, "Oh, shut up!"

World At A Glance

No sooner had Gen. Franco's forces occupied Madrid than British Gibraltar took alarm. The Franco-ites, it seems immediately began a throwing up of defenses along Gibraltar's edge in a very peculiar way. That is, are they intended for defensive purposes alone? Or do they contemplate an attempted grab of this historic stronghold of John Bull? Here's a fresh headache for the London government in particular, but in general for whatever else remains of the peace-loving world. If it forecasts a move by the new Spanish government to gain possession of the famous rock at the western end of the Mediterranean it means trouble compared with which the just-ending war on the Iberian peninsula will seem like small potatoes. Not that Franco signifies. But if he really plans the capture of that little corner of Spain, it necessarily follows that he has Italy back of him, and Germany back of Italy. It starts the threatened all-around European war, in short.

That Mussolini planned the early acquisition of Gibraltar wasn't anticipated. He wants it, of course, to give him complete control of the inland sea. Nevertheless, it wasn't imagined that he'd act so soon. Supposing that that's his scheme, it's much as if some potentially hostile power were to begin operations toward possession of the Panama Canal. Britain couldn't stand it for a minute—not even the threat.

BOWERS IN SPOTLIGHT

Claude Bowers, Yankee ambassador to pre-war Spain, is back in Washington now. Naturally the state department has questioned him. But Claude doesn't know. He was sent to Madrid when things were peaceful. He thought he had a nice assignment. Instead he's spent most of his time during the last two years on the French side of the Franco-Spanish frontier. Too many bombs were dropping around the U. S. embassy in Madrid to make it a desirable place to stay. And anyway, nobody surmised that Gibraltar would be involved in the mess.

Nor has it been involved thus far. Now, though, it's scared. We don't know yet how justifiably. All the same, the situation looks bilious. Civil war in Spain is one thing. A fight for Gibraltar between the British on one side, and Franco-istic Spain, supported by Italy, and pre-supported by Germany on the other side is something else again.

Maybe Claude Bowers couldn't have been expected to visualize all that. He can't be blamed. Nobody foresaw the Gibraltar angle. Benito Mussolini's strategy is easy enough to understand. The Mediterranean has two ends. The eastern end is at the Suez Canal. He already has said that he wants a voice in control of that end. What he means is that he wants sole control. Gibraltar controls the western end. With these two controls, Italy controls the Mediterranean as effectively as the United States controls the Great Lakes, from Duluth to the Thousand Islands.

ITALY HASN'T GOT 'EM

But Italy hasn't got 'em. Possibly it has something of a mortgage on Suez, but not on Gibraltar. It's inconceivable that it won't have to fight for that. Djibouti and vicinity are discussable with France, but not Gibraltar, with the British. That would be as reasonable as a totalitarian discussion between Mr. Bull and his neighbors over their respective claims to suzerainty concerning Fleet Street, London.

The Mediterranean is a very sensitive subject with Britain, at best.

It can get to India that way only, except around the Cape of Good Hope. It isn't going to give anybody much authority over Suez; none at all over Gibraltar. Still, if corked up at Suez, it can get in through the Gibraltar back door and raise the roof. But bottle it up at both ends? Oh my!

More Cancer Deaths Reported Every Year

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

FROM THE 50,000 letters from the public asking information about cancer, the following, concerning distribution and diagnosis, were the most frequent. Honest answers accompany them.

Is cancer increasing? More deaths from cancer are reported each year. Some attribute this increase to increasing age of the population; some to improved methods of diagnosis; others to a real increase in the occurrence of cancer.

Second Place

How does cancer compare with other diseases as a cause of death? It occupies second place, as seen from the following table of deaths from leading causes in the United States in 1936:

Heart disease .....	341,350
CANCER .....	142,613
Pneumonia .....	119,378
Kidney disease .....	106,865
Apoplexy .....	104,334
Tuberculosis .....	71,527

Why do more women than men die from cancer? Because it occurs so frequently in the breast and uterus of women. Nearly 60 per cent of cancer deaths in the United States occur in women.

Are all growths cancer? No. Tumors are of two kinds—benign and usually harmless, and malignant or cancer.

Difference Explained

What is the difference between a benign and a cancerous growth? Benign growths usually have a limiting membrane. They never spread to other parts of the body. Malignant cells grow among normal cells and prevent the latter from functioning normally. Unless adequately treated, cancer cells spread to other parts of the body.

How can we tell if a growth is cancer? By examining a small portion of the suspected tissue under the microscope.

Is pain an early symptom of cancer? No, except in cancer of bone or nerve tissue. Pain usually is a late symptom and when it occurs the growth is often far advanced.

Early Cancer Signs

What are some of the early signs of cancer?

1. A persistent lump, especially in a woman's breast.
2. A sore that does not heal, particularly about the face, mouth or lips.
3. An unnatural bloodstained discharge from a natural body opening.
4. Sudden changes in size or color of moles and warts.

Are all breast lumps cancer? Not more than 10 to 15 per cent are cancer. Only by a careful examination can it be definitely determined.

Do freckles ever turn into cancer? Simple freckles do not. However, flat moles containing certain pigment and looking like dark freckles may become cancers and should be watched.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Reader: "Please inform me of the significance of albumin in the urine."

Answer—This subject was taken up very fully in the column about two weeks ago. Briefly, albumin appears in the urine during fevers and sometimes in young people it appears when they have been in their feet too much (orthostatic albuminuria). Usually it means some kidney degeneration.

R. M. H.: "Please tell me what causes one to have a sore tongue and the corners of the mouth to become sore and inflamed. Frequently there are blisters on the tongue, accompanied by general sensitiveness."

Answer—A frequent cause is anemia. Another frequent cause is lack of fresh fruits and vegetables in the diet. It may be a functional nervous disorder similar to fever blisters.

"Rankin, in a sensational scene at the Brighton bridge, revealed his identity to save from death his friend, Clark Martin, who was testing a safety net which he and Rankin together have developed. The net is of the same construction as the one used by Rankin, himself in the fatal Wetmore experiment.

"Tom Evans, a buddy of Rankin's, was killed in this experiment. Evidence showed later that the net had been tampered with in such a way as to cause Evans' death, and Rankin was accused of murder. He disappeared, and was located only today, living here in Brighton."

"While Rankin was being booked at the Brighton police station, news was flashed of the suicide in Wetmore of John Angstedt. In a note left by Angstedt, and later verified by the Wetmore police, he confessed that he had tampered with the Wetmore net and caused the death of Tom Evans. An affair with the wife of Evans whom he later married, was the motive behind the murder. Mrs. Angstedt, the former Mrs. Evans, confronted by the suicide and the confession, broke down and verified Angstedt's story. She confessed she had known of the murder from the time it happened, but had been afraid to speak of it.

"Angstedt's suicide and the testimony of Mrs. Angstedt, completely cleared Rankin of the charges against him, just when plans were being made to rush him back to Wetmore for trial. Rankin, recently married, and using the name of Bennett, has been living in Brighton only a few weeks.

The article seemed interminable to Lona. The words danced on the page like black flies as she forced herself to read it through. A buzzing seemed to be growing in her ears, and she felt suddenly weak and light headed.

"Is this true?" she managed to bring out, her eyes on the grinning sergeant. "Tell me, please."

"It's all true," he assured her. "They're waitin' for you in there now. . . . Imagine, you not knowin' it!"

"Jim! . . . oh, Jim!" The paper fell suddenly from Lona's hands. Her knees seemed to be buckling in the middle like those of a jointed doll. Without another word she slid abruptly into a huddled little heap on the floor.

Said Vallee of Karloff in one of his previous appearances on the hour that's heard over the NBC red network at 8 p. m., "I am inclined to wonder why the movies find nothing better for him to do than the horror tales with which he is now so firmly identified."

To foil the type casting that's prevalent in Hollywood, Rudy presents Boris Karloff in, "Resurrection," a dramatic piece written originally for the Canadian Broadcasting Commission.

CALVACADE OF AMERICA

The life-story of John Howard Payne, homeless wanderer, whose ironic career would have left no lasting imprint on the pages of history were it not for his nostalgic ballad, "Home, Sweet Home," will be broadcast by Calvacade of America, Monday evening, April 10, at 8 p. m., over the WABC-CBS network.

The lyrics for "Home, Sweet Home," were written in Paris, in 1822, set to the music of an old Sicilian air and sung for the first time in the operetta, "Clari" at Covent Garden in London, in 1823. The song was an immediate success and although John Payne wrote nearly sixty plays during this period of life, "Home, Sweet Home" was his only permanent success.

RADIO SIDELIGHTS

Just two years ago this week Dave Elman started "HOBBY LOBBY" on a sustaining basis at a coffee-and-cruiser stipend. Since that time Hobby Lobby has been sponsored on all four networks and Dave's weekly income has zoomed to four figures.

Little old ladies so frail they must be helped to the microphone are less addicted to mike fright than young huskies who've braced desperadoes in their native haunts, according to Gabriel Heatter of "WE, THE PEOPLE." Last example was Tipton Cox, the youth who slew Earl Durand, the Wyoming bandit.

John Conte, announcer for the "SCREEN GUILD SHOW," is being tested for the male lead in "Golden Boy" by Columbia pictures.

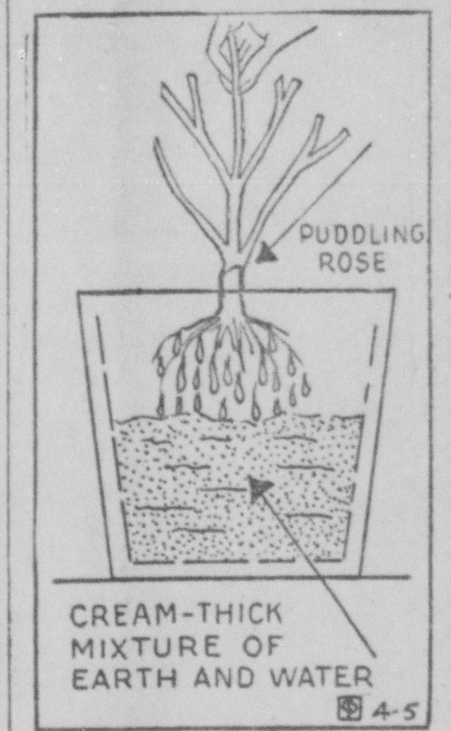

LUM and ABNER have adopted the idea of having a "Fluff Box" into which they drop twenty-five cents every time they miss a word in their script. At the end of each month, they send the money to a local Hollywood charity.

A unique combination of business office and radio rehearsal is found on the Columbia Playhouse stage each Saturday afternoons.

GARDEN-GRAPH

New roses will be benefited by giving them a "mud pack" treatment before planting. The "mud pack" treatment will keep the roots of newly arrived roses from being harmed by exposure to sun or air before they are planted. The roots of these bushes are very sensitive to the drying effect of both wind and sun.

Before the bushes are unpacked

Mud pack aids rose beauty from their wrappings, mix a pall of earth and water and stir to a cream-thick consistency. Then as each rose bush is taken from its wrappings plunge the roots into this "mud pack" mixture as illustrated in the Garden-Graph accompanying this article.

An even safer method is to leave the rose bush in the pall of mud until a hole in the rose bed has been prepared for it. Then lift the bush, its roots dripping with mud, from the pall and plant it at once.

The trouble of giving each rose bush this precautionary "mud pack" will be more than repaid by the healthy growth of the rose after planting and the extra beauty of its many blooms.

Obituary
The subject of this sketch, Henry Lewis Graves, was born in Ross county May 20th, 1850 and departed this life April 1st, 1939, age 88 years, 10 months and 12 days.

He was united in marriage Dec. 24th, 1871 to Mary Kerns and to this union three children were born, namely Floyd of New Holland, Ohio and Samuel of Columbus, Ohio. One dying in infancy. His first companion departed this life March 4th, 1874.

He was later married Dec. 2nd, 1874 to Lydia Grant and to this union four children were born, namely, Alfred H. and Robert Scott both of London, Ohio, Mrs. Ethel B. Marshall, Stoutsville, Ohio with whom he was making his home at the time of his death, and one having died in infancy.

The larger part of his life was spent in Pickaway County where he made many friends and acquaintances. In the Spring of 1895 he accepted Christ as his Lord and Saviour and remained true until his departure.

He leaves to mourn their loss, his devoted wife and children, 17 grandchildren, 27 great grandchildren, one brother Thomas, of Circleville, Ohio, two sisters, Mrs. Mary McGath of Circleville, Ohio, Mrs. Alice Allen of Columbus, Ohio and many other relatives and friends. He will be missed by all those who knew and loved him.

A great, good man has gone to rest. Of many gifts and rare, He was "A man of God" and true, He was a man of prayer.

At home he was a model man, As husband, father, friend, His words were pure and chaste and few, Here truth and kindness blend.

The church has lost a great, good man, He sought not highest place, But always true to every trust, He ran the Christian race.

And now at length the crown is won, With many a gem and star, He has gone, to await our coming Out there, "Across the Bar".

Cleaners Alone As Coca Colas Defeat Purinas In Overtime Fray

Caskey Cleaners, a team that came from far behind in the City League cage race, was champion of the loop Wednesday following an overtime upset of the Purina Feeds by the Coca Colas. The Purina crew needed a victory to tie the Caskeys, but lost in a fast contest that ended 30-27.

The game ended 27-all, but Zeimer connected for a bucket and Young for a free throw in the overtime while the Purinas were being held scoreless.

The Purina outfit led 16-11 at half time and enjoyed a margin longer than that during the second half, only to lose it when the Cola Cola boys got hot.

Creighton Anderson of the Purina team and Zeke Zeimer of the Cola Colas were high scorers with 10 and nine respectively.

REDLEGS IN COLUMBIA

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 5—The Cincinnati Reds and the Boston Red Sox were to resume their marathon baseball series here today. Yesterday at Augusta, Ga., the Ohio boys trounced the Bostonians 18-7 before a crowd of 2,000.

six-player swap between the two clubs during the winter.

Ever since Bartell came up with a lame ankle while in training with the National league champions at Catalina, folk around Chicago have suspected Massa Bill unloaded an unsound player on the Cubs, but now it is revealed that the ex-Giant isn't afflicted with rheumatism, arthritis or any other systemic disorder.

After a thorough examination of the swollen ankle yesterday, Dr. John F. Davis, Cub physician, announced that Bartell's incapacity is due to a "traumatic injury" and that the ankle shows no signs of either rheumatism or arthritis.

Bartell was sent to Illinois Masonic hospital, where Dr. Davis said the ballplayer must remain in bed two or three days. Only complete rest can cure the ankle, the doctor advised. The shortstop said he'd follow the doc's orders and get back in uniform as soon as possible.

THOMAS STRAWSER, FIREMAN, LEAVES DEPARTMENT ON MAY 1

CHIEF RECEIVES RESIGNATION OF VALUED WORKER

Logan Street Man Cites Ill Health For His Decision

TO BE UNDER PENSION

Many Experiences Recalled; Three Major Blazes Remembered

Thomas Strawser, 228 Logan street, veteran Circleville fireman, will leave the department on May 1 on pension. He presented his resignation to Fire Chief Talmer Wise, Tuesday afternoon. Ill health is the reason given for Mr. Strawser leaving the department. "I'm not fit anymore to be a fireman because of my health," he said. "I hate to give up the work but I guess it's best."

Mr. Strawser, who is 65 years old, has been a regular fireman since Dec. 1, 1911 and served as a call fireman from 1899 until 1911. Horse drawn apparatus was used in the department when Mr. Strawser started to work under Fire Chief Mart Baer. The department was in its present location. Charles Duffy was the mayor when Mr. Strawser started with the department. Sam Lewis was safety director.

Worked on Railroad

Mr. Strawser was employed on the Norfolk & Western railroad and the Scioto Valley traction line before he started with the fire department. He drove a team for the department from the time he started until 1913 when motor equipment was purchased. Mr. Strawser was the truck driver for about 20 years.

During all his years of service he was never seriously injured in the work. He suffered back and eye injuries in a fire on W. Main street many years ago. "I was laid up about a week," he added. "I just can't remember the date of the fire."

Mr. Strawser said the worst fires he helped fight were those at the Martell buggy factory in 1901, the Smith mill fire in 1912 and the Goeller broom factory fire in 1926. The buggy factory was located at the site of the Winorr canning factory. The Smith mill was on S. Court and the broom factory at the site of the present factory.

Has Six Children

The veteran fireman has six children, John, Harry, and Allen, all of Circleville, Mrs. Margie Mosley, Pedro, O., Mrs. Eleanor Reed of Mead, and Mrs. Nellie Eppard, Circleville.

Clinton Strawser, Hayward avenue, brother of Thomas, has been a member of the department for about 22 years.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

Hollywood has officially and publicly paid homage to 16-year-old Deanna Durbin whose latest Universal success, "Three Smart Girls Grow Up," comes Sunday to the Grand theatre.

At the eleventh annual Motion Picture Academy Awards Banquet, Deanna was presented with a special statuette, her first Academy award. The statuette carried the following inscription:

"To Deanna Durbin and Mickey Rooney for their significant contribution in bringing to the screen the spirit and personification of youth, and as juvenile players setting a high standard of ability and achievement."

In Deanna's simple and effective acceptance, she said, "Two and one-half years ago when I came into this business, I had one desire. That was to be good as I could be. Tonight you have made me very, very happy. My aspirations had not reached such a peak. I am extremely grateful."

AT THE CLIFTONA

Jeanette MacDonald, who started out her career as a dancer, returned to dancing for her role in "Broadway Serenade," coming to the Cliftona Theatre next Sunday and Monday.

Strangely enough, Miss MacDonald went through her first years of pictures with never an opportunity to display her terpsichorean ability. It was not until "The Firefly" that she danced before the cameras.

"Broadway Serenade" marks her second dancing role since that time. In "Sweethearts" she appeared in an eccentric Dutch number with Ray Bolger. In the current musical the star is seen as a musical comedy favorite of the present day, and does an intricate solo number.

Miss MacDonald's dancing, however, does not interfere with her famed vocal talents, the new picture offering a wide variety of songs, among them "For Every Heart," "High Flyin'," "Rhapsody," "One Look at You," "Time Changes Everything," "No Time to Argue," "Ridin' on a Rainbow" and a medley of old-fashioned songs, sung by Miss MacDonald and a chorus with Lew Ayres at the piano.

Little Opposition Voiced To Civil Service Measure

COLUMBUS, April 5—Little opposition appeared on the surface to the administration bill calling for addition of a third member to the civil service commission, which was scheduled for house consideration today.

Although the bill does not provide all the reforms recommended by the Ohio Civil Service Council, spokesmen for the council declared that provisions for the three-member commission with a "more effective administrative setup" would accomplish much that the council desired.

An original bill proposed by the council would have abolished the present two-member commission and set up a part-time commission of three members and an administrative secretary.

Bricker Protests

Governor Bricker balked at the drastic provisions of the bill, and the house organization of state government committee acceded to his demands and recommended a substitute measure.

The present bill gives employees the right of appeal from dismissal orders and provides for seniority ratings of employees.

"Its passage will be a forward step in placing civil service administration in Ohio on a sound, business-like basis," Robert T. Mason, managing director of the civil service council, said after a meeting of 35 member organizations.

Meetings of the committee preparing a permanent poor relief bill and the house taxation committee on reorganization of the tax commission were scheduled for today.

The house yesterday passed a bill by Rep. J. Harry Asmann (R-Hamilton) calling for investigation of the state office housing situation to determine the need for additional state buildings. It was approved, 121 to 1.

A commission of six would make the investigation, which would cover the amount of rentals paid for housing of state departments, offices and bureaus.

Much Rental Paid

Rep. Michael A. Feighan, Democratic floor leader, estimated that the state spends $850,000 a year for rentals and that many departments were poorly housed. The commission would report to the general assembly and the

CHIEF RECEIVES RESIGNATION OF VALUED WORKER

Logan Street Man Cites Ill Health For His Decision

TO BE UNDER PENSION

Many Experiences Recalled; Three Major Blazes Remembered

Thomas Strawser, 228 Logan street, veteran Circleville fireman, will leave the department on May 1 on pension. He presented his resignation to Fire Chief Palmer Wise, Tuesday afternoon. Ill health is the reason given for Mr. Strawser leaving the department. "I'm not fit anymore to be a fireman because of my health," he said. "I hate to give up the work but I guess it's best."

Mr. Strawser, who is 65 years old, has been a regular fireman since Dec. 1, 1911 and served as a call fireman from 1899 until 1911. Horse drawn apparatus was used in the department when Mr. Strawser started to work under Fire Chief Mart Baer. The department was in its present location. Charles Duffy was the mayor when Mr. Strawser started with the department. Sam Lewis was safety director.

Worked on Railroad
Mr. Strawser was employed on the Norfolk & Western railroad and the Scioto Valley traction line before he started with the fire department. He drove a team for the department from the time he started until 1913 when motor equipment was purchased. Mr. Strawser was the truck driver for about 20 years.

During all his years of service he was never seriously injured in the work. He suffered back and eye injuries in a fire on W. Main street many years ago. "I was laid up about a week," he added. "I just can't remember the date of the fire."

Mr. Strawser said the worst fires he helped fight were those at the Martell buggy factory in 1901, the Smith mill fire in 1912 and the Goeller broom factory fire in 1926. The buggy factory was located at the site of the Winor cannery factory. The Smith mill was on S. Court and the broom factory at the site of the present factory.

Has Six Children
The veteran fireman has six children, John, Harry, and Allen, all of Circleville, Mrs. Margie Mosley, Pedro, O. Mrs. Eleanor Reed of Mead, and Mrs. Nellie Eppard, Circleville.

Clinton Strawser, Hayward avenue, brother of Thomas, has been a member of the department for about 22 years.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND
Hollywood has officially and publicly paid homage to 16-year-old Deanna Durbin whose latest Universal success, "Three Smart Girls Grow Up," comes Sunday to the Grand theatre.

At the eleventh annual Motion Picture Academy Awards Banquet, Deanna was presented with a special statuette, her first Academy award. The statuette carried the following inscription:

"To Deanna Durbin and Mickey Rooney for their significant contribution in bringing to the screen the spirit and personification of youth, and as juvenile players setting a high standard of ability and achievement"

In Deanna's simple and effective acceptance, she said, "Two and one-half years ago when I came into this business, I had one desire. That was to be as good as I could be. Tonight you have made me very, very happy. My aspirations had not reached such a peak. I am extremely grateful."

AT THE CLIFTONA
Jeanette MacDonald, who started out her career as a dancer, returned to dancing for her role in "Broadway Serenade," coming to the Cliftona Theatre next Sunday and Monday.

Strangely enough, Miss MacDonald went through her first years of pictures with never an opportunity to display her terpsichorean ability. It was not until "The Firefly" that she danced before the cameras.

"Broadway Serenade" marks her second dancing role since that time. In "Sweethearts" she appeared in an eccentric Dutch number with Ray Bolger. In the current musical the star is seen as a musical comedy favorite of the present day, and does an intricate solo number.

Miss MacDonald's dancing, however, does not interfere with her famed vocal talents, the new picture offering a wide variety of songs, among them "For Every Heart," "High Flyin'," "Rhapsody," "One Look at You," "Time Changes Everything," "No Time to Argue," "Ridin' on a Rainbow" and a medley of old-fashioned songs, sung by Miss MacDonald and a chorus with Lew Ayres at the piano.

Little Opposition Voiced To Civil Service Measure

COLUMBUS, April 5—Little opposition appeared on the surface to the administration bill calling for addition of a third member to the civil service commission, which was scheduled for house consideration today.

Although the bill does not provide all the reforms recommended by the Ohio Civil Service Council, spokesmen for the council declared that provisions for the three-member commission with a "more effective administrative setup" would accomplish much that the council desired.

An original bill proposed by the council would have abolished the present two-member commission and set up a part-time commission of three members and an administrative secretary.

Bricker Protests

Governor Bricker balked at the drastic provisions of the bill, and the house organization of state government committee acceded to his demands and recommended a substitute measure.

The present bill gives employees the right of appeal from dismissal orders and provides for seniority ratings of employees.

"Its passage will be a forward step in placing civil service administration in Ohio on a sound, business-like basis," Robert T. Mason, managing director of the civil service council, said after a meeting of 35 member organizations.

Meetings of the committee preparing a permanent poor relief bill and the house taxation committee on reorganization of the tax commission were scheduled for today.

The house yesterday passed a bill by Rep. J. Harry Asmann (R-Hamilton) calling for investigation of the state office housing situation to determine the need for additional state buildings. It was approved, 121 to 1.

A commission of six would make the investigation, which would cover the amount of rentals paid for housing of state departments, offices and bureaus.

Much Rental Paid
Rep. Michael A. Feighan, Democratic floor leader, estimated that the state spends $850,000 a year for rentals and that many departments were poorly housed. The commission would report to the general assembly and the governor. The bill now goes to the senate.

Sen. Frank E. Whittemore, Republican floor leader, announced that action of the bill abolishing life tenure for the adjutant-general would be delayed until next week because of the illness of several senators.

The senate finally defeated the Lipscher bill requiring that justices of the peace be attorneys or secure certificates from the Supreme or Common Pleas court.

Vote on the bill was reconsidered several weeks ago, but yesterday it was beaten for the second time, 17 to 14.

Responsibility for revoking teachers' certificates for cause would be shifted from the director of education to the director and state board of school examiners by a majority vote, or by the board's unanimous vote.

Former U. S. Senator Charles Dick of Akron addressed both house and senate yesterday on the importance of the United States remaining a peaceful nation.

AUTOIST FACES CHARGES IN DEATH OF WOMAN, 39

COLUMBUS, April 5—Maurice Friley, 23, Columbus, today faced charges of second degree manslaughter in the traffic death of Mrs. Margaret Steffan, 39. Action was brought by the victim's husband, Harley Steffan, authorities reported.

The affidavit charged Friley with reckless operation of an auto while under the influence of intoxicants. At the time of the fatal accident a week ago, the defendant told deputy sheriffs another car was passing him and he did not know he had struck anyone until he saw the woman lying in the roadway.

Paul D. Miller, Montclair avenue, was the new exalted ruler of the Circleville lodge of Elks Wednesday following installation exercises conducted Tuesday evening by Dr. Harry D. Jackson, past exalted ruler. Mr. Miller succeeds Joe W. Adkins, Jr., who served during the last year.

Other officers who took their chairs Tuesday evening were Andrew U. Thomas, leading knight; Tom A. Following the installation program a social evening was enjoyed.

Mr. Adkins, completing his year's work, disclosed that the trustees were prepared to practically wipe out the bonded debt on the lodge's home, N. Court street. He declared that at the end of the fiscal year the lodge had 389 members in good standing.

The new exalted ruler will represent the lodge at the 1939 grand lodge convention in St. Louis, being conducted in mid-July. Dr. Jackson is the alternate delegate. The lodge voted to purchase $10 worth of Easter Seals to assist the Rotary Club's program.

ALBANIA'S QUEEN GIVES NATION HEIR TO THRONE

TIRANA, Albania, April 5—Queen Geraldine of Albania provided an heir to the Albanian throne today when she gave birth to a son, her first child.

The 24-year-old queen is the former Countess Geraldine Apponyi, a Hungarian-born beauty whose mother, the former Gladys Virginia Stewart of New York, was an American millionaire.

The queen and the 42-year-old Albanian monarch, King Zog I, were married April 27, 1938. Zog was proclaimed king in 1928 after having served as president of the Albanian republic since 1925.

NOTE ORDERS FILM STAR TO PAY $250 EXTORTION

NEW YORK, April 5—A constant police guard was being maintained today over Dorothy Lamour, exotic film actress who received a threatening letter demanding $250, until she returns to the coast tonight.

Because the amount requested was so small, police were of the opinion the letter was the work of a crank rather than a professional extortionist.
